

LOCAL BREVITIES.

At Washington Place.
Yesterday forenoon the members of the old Royalist band tendered a complimentary concert to Liliuokalani at Washington Place. Many old-time pieces and marches dedicated to the Queen and to Kalakaua were played, concluding with Hawaii Pono. The ex-Queen was extremely affected at the musical homage and thanked the players in a neat speech. In the afternoon a largely attended luncheon was given to the natives who called at the residence. The affair was a quiet one and was given little publicity. Almost the entire afternoon was devoted to the function, at which the ex-Queen was almost constantly in attendance. Since her arrival last Monday night Liliuokalani has shaken hands with her friends until she has become weary of the effort.

Honolulu Doctor Returns.
Among the passengers arrived last night on the Aorangi from Vancouver and Victoria was Dr. Wayson, with his wife and child. Dr. Wayson and family have been spending several weeks with the doctor's relatives up north. They are glad to be back again in Honolulu. Dr. Wayson interested himself while in Port Townsend in investigating the matter of bubonic plague there. It will be remembered that there was plague in Port Townsend. Dr. Wayson says that he learned from the authorities there that there never had been plague in Port Townsend, and that cases of sickness reported as such were beriberi and nothing more. The doctor's friends will be happy to hear of his return.

At the Orpheum.
There will be no matinee at the Orpheum this afternoon on account of the races. Last night "The Grand Duchess" was given by the Southwell Opera company. The play went smoothly. Bosie Fairburn as "Prince Paul" showed to advantage. Wolff as "General Baum" was good. Little Miss Rosa was sweet and shy, and Branson did himself more credit than he has since the company opened. The chorus, becoming more used to the stage and one another, has greatly improved and make a brave show. The stage was better handled than heretofore and awkward hitches were absent. "The Grand Duchess" will be on tonight.

Young Will Spend Money.
The following expenditures authorized by the Executive Council yesterday, will be made by the Minister of the Interior. These will be made under Act 4 of the Council of State:
Roads Puna to complete contract, $2,500; Harbor Improvements, Hilo, $1,000; Roads Kawaihau, Kauai, $100; Roads Hana, $200.
An authorization of $1,400 was also made under Act 2 for the Pihonua road to complete contract.

The United States postal inspectors demand more room for the improved facilities which they will inaugurate on and after June 14 in the local postoffice. An application for added accommodations was made to the Executive Council yesterday. The Minister of the Interior was authorized to call for bids in conformity with plans already prepared by the Superintendent of Public Works. The erection of the additional structure will doubtless be commenced at a very early date. This has been a crying need for some time, and none will regret the incoming of the postal inspectors who have brought about the additions in such a short time.

The Executive Council yesterday passed a resolution that the property of the Hale Naua, now stored in the basement of the Executive building, shall be returned to the officers of the Hale Naua.
